

First Aid, CPR, Asthmas and Anaphylaxis

At Camp Australia, the safety and well-being of the children in our care remains our top priority. In compliance with the ACECQA and National Regulations it is a requirement that there is someone onsite always holding a current first aid qualification.

For our industry, the recommended course is HLTAID012 Provide First Aid in an Education and Care Setting.

At Camp Australia:

- Coordinators must hold & provide a copy of their current first aid qualifications.
- Educators are strongly encouraged to obtain and provide a copy of their first aid qualification and
- Corporate team members in the Service Delivery team must hold and provide a copy of their first aid qualification.
- Corporate team members in other departments are encouraged to obtain and provide a copy of their first aid qualification.

Do you already have a current certificate?

If you already have a current first aid qualification, our records team will upload your qualifications to your employee file to simplify the process for you. You can access these records through your One Team account, which will also provide reminders and due dates to help you keep your qualifications and certificates up to date. To submit your documents, please email records@campaustralia.com.au with the attached files and include your employee number for easy identification.

Do you need to obtain a first aid certificate?

If you do not have the required certificates, you can complete the necessary training at any registered provider. However, we recommend using our preferred providers in each state to take advantage of exclusively discounted rates.
